Dear Mr. Brown:

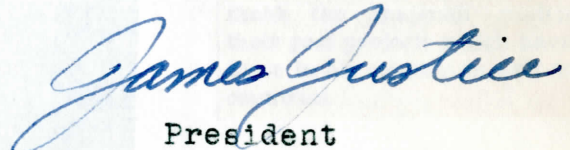

We talk brotherhood, but do we really live it? If we examine our community life we will probably find that in many cases we do not.

A group of interested people from the towns of Lewisburg, Milton, Northumberland, Sunbury and Bloomsburg are gathering at Bucknell on Saturday, May 15, to discuss the problems of human relations. This conference will be aimed at setting up some sort of a "goodwill" committee in the Lewisburg community as a step towards eliminating racial and religious discrimination and improving community relations.

We are contacting you because we feel that you are in a key position in your community. Thus we hope you will be concerned about the problem and will express your concern by participating.

We sincerely hope you will help us realize the aims of this conference.

Yours truly,

President
