

Friends Society Sponsors Freedom Riders Lecture

D. C. Core, President, and the Freedom Riders will speak on Sun., Oct. 8, at 2:30 p. m. in the Vaughan Literature Auditorium. Mr. Julius W. Mobson, Washington president of the Congress of Racial Equality; Mr. Charles Mason of Harvard University; and two freedom riders who have spent forty days in jail will speak on "The Principle of Non-Violence in the CORE Program."

Born in Alabama, Mr. Mobson served as an Air Force pilot in World War II. He holds the B. S. in electrical engineering from Tuskegee Institute and the M. A. in economics from Howard, and has also done graduate work at American University. At present he is a medical economist with the Social Security Administration.

Interested in race relations for the last 16 years, he has written articles for nationally circulated magazines on bias in employment, directed three institutes on this subject at Howard, and served for five years as the Chairman of the NAACP Committee on Employment, as well as a number of its Executive Committees. In 1959 the Commissioners of the District of Columbia appointed him to write the by-laws and constitution of the present Washington Council on Human Relations. As Nation Officer of CORE in the Eastern United States and president of the Washington branch, he is well qualified to interpret its policies.

The Lewisburg Society of Friends, which is sponsoring the talk, has especially invited members of Millville-Muncy Quarterly Friends' Meeting and State College Meeting. The discussion, however, is open to the public, and all interested persons will be cordially welcomed.

Those wishing to dine with the group beforehand should telephone Mrs. Bruce Mitchell JA-4-2781, during the evening.

that they are taking the course because of the great leadership training which can be obtained. Others feel that there are greater advantages of being an officer, such as pay, privileges, and the idea that they immediately enter into an executive position upon graduating from college.

Army Military Service

Some freshmen feel that the Army is the only Military Service that has the program which would be of interest to them. Others feel that the Army will give them greater training for later life, and that knowledge of Army discipline and Military History would be to their advantage.

The 155 freshmen men who indicated that they did not care to enroll in the basic course felt that ROTC would take too much time from their studies. Others felt that they would not be able to spend the six weeks at Summer Camp during the summer of their junior year, for they have to work during the summer to pay for their education. Some men indicated that they would be able to enter the service as an officer, because they would be professional men.
