

ing their own lives. We feel that this degree of freedom and responsibility is consistent with the level of maturity that most Bucknell women have attained by their senior year and see the system as consistent with the aims of the University, the purposes stated in the constitution of the Associated Women Students and the expectations of faculty and administrative members. The Senior Privilege will be subject to semiannual review by a committee composed of eight senior women, including four members of the AWS Senate, with the dean of women as adviser. In addition, it will be reviewed annually by the administration."

If statistics on the academic performance of women students during past years provides a real index on how seriously they take responsibility, Senior Privilege may be here to stay. Among members of the Class of 1965, for example, 72 women graduated in the top fifth of their class, and 45 in the second fifth. Overall, 117 of the 169 women graduates rated in the top two fifths of their graduating class. Thus, the most recent women graduates maintained the record of our Alumnae who have made giant strides in proving that ours is not "a man's world."

SCHOLAR-ATHLETE

P. Craig Williams '67, a member of the varsity football and lacrosse teams, has been named the recipient of a two-year Armstrong Undergraduate Scholarship. Sponsored by the Armstrong Cork Company, the scholarship is one of 20 provided by the company to male students in their last two years of undergraduate study who are planning to make their careers in business or industry.

A graduate of Abington High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Williams, 145 Tyson Avenue, Glenside. A civil engineering major, Williams has compiled a 3.271 grade point average (out of a possible 4,000) in his first two years at Bucknell. He is a member of the student branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

AL ANDERSON AWARD

Marshall E. McBeth '66, Harrisburg, was named recipient of the Al Anderson award for his part in the Phi Kappa Psi intramural victory of 1964-65. 'Mac' received a miniature replica of the large bowl inscribed as follows:

"Awarded to Marshall E. McBeth for outstanding contribution to the Phi Kappa Psi's Championship Intramural Team, Bucknell University—1965."

McBeth was elected by his fraternity to receive this honor in appreciation of his key role in their winning the Pangburn All Year Intramural Trophy.

David Wright '65, won the first annual award last year.

The award was conceived and made in recognition of the interest displayed in intramural sports by Al Anderson '56 who met a tragic death in 1962 as a naval flight officer while leading a long-range navigation mission.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, was surrounded by attentive Bucknell students as he discussed his role in the struggle for civil rights at a reception in Hunt Hall. Earlier, Mr. Farmer had addressed a capacity audience in Davis Gymnasium, Unit II, on "The Civil Rights Revolution." His visit to the campus was made on Monday, October 4.
